JOHN TRIBBEY IS PLACED ON TRIAL

Rush County Man Faces a Fayette County Jury on a Very Serious Charge.

WHITECAP VICTIM'S TROUBLES

Now Being Prosecuted For an Assault on His Brother-in-Law
With Intent to Kill.

The Connersville Examiner has the following concerning the trial of John Tribbey, in progress there:

The trial of John Tribbey, of Rush county, who is charged with assault and battery with the intention of killing his brother-in-law, Henry Conoway, was commenced Monday, the case coming here on a change of venue.

The prosecution promises to be the most interesting trial of the term.
Judge Morris, of Rushville, and D. W.
McKee, of this city, are defending Tribbey, while Raymond Springer, of this city, and Attorneys Titsworth and Martin of Rushville are looking after the State's side of the case.

John Tribbey, it will be remembered, was the victim of a whitecapping affair in Rush county last summer. He was taken from his home one night by a gang of men and severely beaten and whipped. Later a number of his neighbors were indicted and prosecuted for the offense, but the jury acquitted all the defendants. It was alleged that Tribbey was guilty of cruelly treating his wife and of other offenses. He seems at least to have incurred the enmity of a number of his neighbors.

A short time after the whitecapping Tribbey and his brother-in-law met one day in the road near Trib-bey's house. After a few words Tribbey is said to have assaulted his brother-in-law with a pocket knife, striking him in the throat, cutting a wound three inches long and barely missing the jugular vein.

Tribbey, it was said, accused his brother-in-law of being a member of the whitecaps who whipped him.

After the jury had been accepted
this morning Attorney Titsworth made the opening statement to the jury. Th first witness for the State was Mrs. Conoway, wife of the prosecuting witness.

Tribbey's attorneys have prepared a vigorous defense and that they expect to contest every point was shown early in the trial. This morning when Mr. Titsworth was concluding his statement to the jury he said it would be shown by evidence that Mr. Conoway was a quiet and peaceable citizen, while that evidence would also show that the defendant has a bad reputation.

Judge Morris was on his feet in a second, objecting to the statement.
He moved the court that the jury be discharged because of the statement of the State's attorney, which he said could not be borne out by the evidence. Judge Gray overruled the motion. If the defendant is convicted the case will very likely be sent to the supreme court and the prosecutor's statement will be one of the reasons assigned for a reversal of the verdict.

Tribbey is a man of probably fifty years. A good deal has been heard of him since the whitecapping affair, and he was more or less an object of interest in the court room today. He doesn't look like the bad man one might expect, after hearing so much about him.

There are a large number of witnesses attending from Rush county.
The case is likely to occupy several days' time.

Mr. Conoway, the prosecuting witness, was placed on the stand this afternoon. He told the story of his trouble with his brother-in-law and underwent a long cross examination.

It was shown on cross examination that following the trouble Conoway had made an effort to plead guilty to the charge of assault and battery on Tribbey. The defense seemed pleased on getting this evidence before the jury.

Mr. Titsworth conducts the examination of the witnesses for the State.

She Never Saw.

IS A SAILOR LAD OF UNCLE SAM

Miss Bessie Ball of Arlington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ball left today for Portsmouth, Va., where she will marry Mr. Charles Vette of that city. Miss Ball is traveling hundreds of miles to marry a man she has never seen. It is simply a case of love "at no sight," as Miss Ball has merely corresponded with her fiancé and has seen his picture.
The groom-to-be is a sailor in the United States navy and will sail in June for unknown lands, when Miss Ball will return to her home to await his return.

FIRST EFFECTS OF COUNTY OPTION

Wingter Cigar Manufacturing Establishment Obligated to Lay Off Their Employees.

CASH REGISTERS ARE CHEAP

The first echo of the county option election in Rush county, as affecting business interest was last Saturday, when George Wingter laid off all his cigarmakers but three. Mr. Wingter employs from fifteen to twenty people and the saloons going out in Rushville and surrounding cities will injure his business permanently.
Cigar manufacturrs are among the first to suffer. Last week the Dayton cash register company laid off 350 employees for the saloons going out are flooding the market with cash registers. It is a good time to buy one very reasonable. So cheap are they that quite a few husbands are thinging of installing them in their homes.

hourly expected. The funeral services will be conducted from the

IMMENSE WAS SPRITZ CONCERT

Never Before Has a Better or More Artistic Program Been Rendered Here.

CROWD WAS NOT SO LARGE

But Enthusiasm and Applause Reigned Throughout the Evening of Classic With Young Ladies.

It is a pity indeed, and a crime against the muse and art to state it in stronger terms, that here in a city that boasts of culture and music loving denizens by the hundreds, that only a handful, two hundred at most,
was present last night at the concert given by the Misses Sylva and Ruth Spritz of Cincinnati. Never before has a more artistic program by finished and talented young ladies been heard here. The program was varied enough by the versatile artists to catch the fancy of everyone, and was made up of violin, piano and vocal solos. Miss Sylva possesses a rare soprano voice with a wide range and much volume. From the dramatic rendition of her first song, O Don Fatale by Verdi, to the character love song of the Scot, Irish, German and Norwegian, she sang with ease and a stage presence not often to be found in concert singers.
Probably the best received song in her repertoire was "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice." Miss Spritz has mastered an extensive repertoire of the most beautiful in vocal music and is enabled to render it in the several popular song languages. She has a very powerful resonant and extended soprano of fine quality and her pleasing manner makes it all the more enjoyable. On the violin, the younger sister completely captivated her auditors. She was heartily encored after each selection. In her violin playing Miss Spritz showed a knowledge of the power of the instrument, and her execution, in several difficult selections, was both graceful and masterly. No better accompanyist than Miss Ruth Spritz has ever been heard here. She ably sustained her sister throughout. In her piano solos she was immense and made a welcomed contribution to the evening in classic. Miss Ruth is quite accomplished and an artist of unusual ability. Her tone coloring is superb; in fact quite rare and her playing poetic and striking. Her program contained a number of difficult selections and she was accorded a warm ovation at the conclusion of each of them. Those who missed the concert missed one of the best ever rendered in Rushville for it was an artistic triumph.

DAMAGE SUIT TO BE HEARD FRIDAY

J. A. Thompson is Suing the East Hill Cemetery Association for $5,000 Damages.

FELL THROUGH BRIDGE FLOOR.

The damage suit of J. A. Thompson, proprietor of the Elks saloon of this city, against the East Hill Cemetery Association will be called in the Fayette circuit court Friday, where it was sent on a change of venue.
Thompson who is a heavy set individual, fell through the flooring of a bridge at the cemetery and broke his leg. He is asking $5,000 damages.

QUEENS TO ALL DRESS IN CALICO

At the Old Fashioned Calico Party to be Given by the Social Club.

STRICTLY WASH GOODS AFFAIR

Men Folks Will Wear Cravats Made of the Cheap Dotted and Striped Prints.

"She was my queen in calico,
I was her bashful, barefoot beau."

Back to ye olden days, pleasant reminder of the glorious past, and an echo of the rare, old fair old days will be the calico party planned by the members of the Social club for Wednesday evening, March 24. The ladies fair—every mother's daughter of them—will be attired in a "wash" dress and simplicity will rule the hour. And the men folks—they will wear neckties (or more properly speaking, cravats) of calico. To be real dashing and ultra-correct, they should wear a cravat made of the same material that their wife or sweetheart has their "costume" made of. In this way, one does not have to wait until they dance "Home, Sweet Home" to see who came together—you can look around anytime and "match things." For several years different orchestras have been playing at the Social club;
there was a time when they would not consider anyone other than Henry Hart the veteran colored musician of Indianapolis, but he went with the old vogue. On this occasion, however, Hart with an orchestra of five pieces will be behind the palms. This will be glad news for many, for they always liked Hart. A number of out-of-town guests are expected.

SPARKS NOW AT THE HELM

D. L. Wilson last week.

opening at which almost a thousand attended. The Ladies Aid Society served ice cream, cake and other refreshments and a general good time was had by all. The Falmouth orchestra furnished the music. It was the largest crowd that ever assembled in Falmouth. The store has grown from a small, dinky, ordinary country store to one that any small town could well feel proud of.

HOT RECEPTION FOR TOM BATES

Wife Says She Does Not Think he Has the Nerve to Return
Here Now.

NEVER TOLD HER ABOUT WIFE

Admitted he Had Other Children, But Inferred That His Wife Was Dead or Divorced.

"I don't think Tom Bates will ever have the nerve to come back here," said his wife today at her home in East Third street, when seen by a representative of the Daily Republican, "and if he does I will certainly give him a hot reception." Mrs.
Bates has little pity left for the man that deceived her all these years and is determined that she is through with him and will try and struggle along alone to support their child, a girl of thirteen years.

"Did Mr. Bates ever tell you anything about his first wife?" she was asked.

"No, he never did," she promptly replied. "He told me that he had been married and had other children, but from what he said—although he did not talk much about it—I inferred that his wife was either dead or they had been divorced. He never seemed to want to talk about it, so rather than annoy him I let the matter drop and had even forgotten about it."

The first Mrs. Bates knew of her husband having another wife was when she read it in the Daily Republican this morning, neighbors having brought the paper to her.

Who would have ever thought it
of Tom Bates, the quiet, unassuming, passive cobbler? That he could have lived here, within sixty miles of another wife and family all these years, and not one inkling of the story ever developing, sounds incredible. Indeed, truth is stranger than fiction.
His friends can now recall many traits that he possessed and which they had passed by as idiosyncrasies. It is now remembered that he hardly ever walked about the streets.
When he had to go any place during the day, he would invariably go through alleys. He always arose early, went to work before many people were on the streets and would return home when the streets again were emptied of pedestrians. Whenever he wanted to be shaved or have his hair cut, he was always the first one in the barber shop in the morning. During all the years he lived in Rushville Bates was never known to sit and wait in a barber shop.

It is peculiar that he did not change his name when he left his wife and did not go a great distance.
The only change he made was in his first name. He was known as John by his first family; here he always was known as Tom Bates. Charles Baker, a furniture manufacturer of Orlenas was here Sunday and said he saw Bates there. He told him he was going to return to his wife here.

STILL WORTH GOOD FIGURE.

The horses at the Cambridge City
sales last week brought good prices.
Nevertheless and notwithstanding automobiles are becoming more popular every day, the horse market does not seem to be affected to any degree. A good horse is still worth a good figure and the day when he is to cease being in demand is far in the future.

SEASON IS NEARLY ENDED.

The sugar water is nearly past.
Owners of sugar tree camps did not anticipate an average yield this year because of the mild winter season just passed. However the flow was good and is being well cared for.

INDIANA POLITICS

ROBERT G. TUCKER.

Indianapolis, March 16.—"I would not accept the office of mayor of Indianapolis if it carried a salary of $10,000 a year and if there were no duties attached to it." With this declaration Captain Harry S. New, former chairman of the Republican national committee, silenced his boom for the nomination for mayor. A large element of his party has been using his name as a prospective candidate, believing that he can come nearer winning than anyone else. In fact, there are many Republican leaders who feel confident that no one but Captain New could be elected by their side. "I don't want the office," said Captain New. "I am not a candidate for any office or any position, and will not be. I am through with politics. I have given thirty years of my life to work for the Republican party because I believe in the party. While I shall continue to do whatever I can for the party, I am not and will not be a candidate for any position." Captain New will not be forced into running for mayor, and it is not likely that his name will be used after his statement becomes public. Four years ago he resisted strong pressure to get him to become a mayoralty candidate, but he kept out then.

The Republican leaders are looking around for a good candidate for the head of their ticket, but there are indications that they will have to draft someone, as no one is anxious to make the race. Police Judge Whallon is thinking seriously of becoming a candidate, but he will be opposed by a large contingent that is not satisfied with the administration of affairs at the police court during the last four years. A boom is being started for Captain William E. English for the Republican nomination, but he is not a candidate at this time. At present the Democrats are in as sore straits as the Republicans for good mayoralty candidates, as no one has announced that he will enter the running. Some of National Committeeman Taggart's friends are booming him, but it was said today that he will not be a candidate, as he can't afford to take time away from his business. Chairman Moore and Chairman Klausman are getting ready to open headquarters within a short time for the purpose of starting work on their organization.

Prof. Robert J. Ale of Bloomington today succeeded Fassett A. Cotton as state superintendent of public instruction, Cotton retiring at the close of his third term. Prof. Ale is the first Democrat to hold the office for many years. E. G. Bunnell of Laporte and S. L. Scott of New Albany are his deputies. Cotton left last night for Wisconsin to take charge of a new state normal school.

The acts of the recent session of the legislature are in the hands of the state printer and will be issued within the next ten days. The volume will be about half as large as the one of 1907. There are 180 new laws and many of them are in effect now, having been passed with emergency clauses.

Plans for an organization of church laymen to raise funds to test the new Sunday baseball law, were made at the weekly meeting of the Indianapolis Methodist Ministers' association.

KILLS CHILDREN AND HIMSELF

Four Lifeless Bodies Discovered by Wife and Mother, Who Can Account For Shocking Crime Only on Ground That Man Was Insane—Former Resident of Danville Commits Horrid Deed at His Home at Flora.

Danville, Ill., May 16.—Word has been received here of a triple murder and suicide by Robert Strawser, a rural mail carrier, and a former resident of this city, at Flora. Strawser gave his three children strychnine and then committed suicide by swallowing a quantity of the drug. The four lifeless bodies were found by the mother of the children.

No motive is known, but Strawser's wife says he was probably insane. The coroner is making an investigation.

MARION ATTORNEY'S CASE

Judge Paulus Names Committee to Investigate Charges.

Marion, Ind., March 16.—Judge H. J. Paulus of the Grant circuit court has started on his own motion disbarment proceedings against William J. Houck, a Marion attorney, who last week was acquitted of the charge of subornation of perjury.

Judge Paulus reviewed the charge against Houck and the acquittal on a technicality, saying it was not only proper, but the duty of the court to cause an investigation and examination into the truth of the charges, so that if innocent Houck may be judicially declared so, and if guilty the court, the profession and the people at large may have proper redress.

A committee from the Bar association has been appointed by Judge Paulus to conduct an investigation. William J. Houck said he was not only willing but anxious to have the charges investigated. The acquittal of Houck when the jury had been impaneled to try his case, has led to much discussion among members of the bar, and Judge Paulus decided to institute the disbarment proceedings. Mr. Houck was on the national ticket as Democratic elector for the Eleventh district in the last campaign, and was once Democratic nominee for congress.

TURNED COURSE OF LIFE

Cracksman's Conviction Followed by Declaration For Good.

Danville, Ill., March 16.—From safe-blower to evangelist is a big change, but that is the step Joseph McCarty, a confessed robber of the postoffice at Gale, Ill., declares he will take. At the county jail here "Big Mack," as he is known, astonished his fellow prisoners and jailer by the statement that as soon as he had finished his term at Leavenworth, Kan., where he is slated to serve time in the United States prison, he would follow the famous "Billy" Sunday and go into the evangelistic field.

McCarty created a dramatic scene in court when he made a confession of the whole affair, saying he was the one that did the real work, and that his "pals" had nothing to do with it. So complete was the man's confession that it is probable that Strong and Gallaher will be released.

Husband Powerless to Aid.

Anderson, Ind., March 16.—Mrs. Mary Helms, seventy-eight years old, was burned to death at her home in the southwestern part of Madison county. The woman was putting more fuel in a fire in her smokehouse, where she was curing meat, and in some way her clothing ignited. Her aged husband, Silas Helms, who is totally blind, heard her cries of agony as she was burning, and groping his way, succeeded in reaching her side, but could not save her.

Miami County Voting Today.

Peru, Ind., March 16.—Voters of Miami county are going to the polls today to determine whether the sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage shall be prohibited in this county. Apparently the liberals are concentrating their efforts in the city of Peru and at Converse.

After Long Deliberation.

Danville, Ill., March 16.—Charles E. Brown, a lawyer, who was accused of having counterfeiting materials in his possession, was acquitted by a jury in the federal court here after a deliberation of twenty-eight hours.

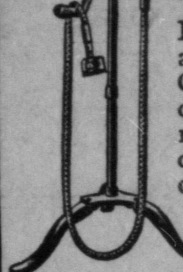

Her Clothes Caught Fire.

Washington, Ind., March 16.—Margaret Goote, twenty years old, was fatally burned at her home in Barr township. The lower door of a heating stove was open and when she passed it her dress caught fire.

Indianapolis, March 16.—Guthrie Powers, a nineteen-year-old boy, killed himself by taking poison. From what the police could learn, the boy was despondent because he could not find employment.

STRONG PRESSURE IS TO BE PUT ON PERSIA

Russia and Great Britain Fixing to Take a Hand.

London, March 16.—Joint action by Russia and Great Britain to put an end to the present chaotic condition in Persia is delayed only by some minor differences as to methods of procedure. Great Britain is anxious to find means of restoring order without intervention and negotiations to this end are going on.

In the meantime conditions in Persia are getting worse and worse. The revolutionists are gaining the upper hand in widely separated sections of the country and the finances of the shah are reported to be so bad that he is not able to take the proper steps to gain control of the situation. Neither does he listen to the advice of the powers to satisfy the Nationalists by the re-establishment of constitutional conditions.

The foreign office hopes that the negotiations with Russia will be concluded shortly, thus enabling the two governments to bring further and more effective pressure to bear upon the shah.

TEST OF MOTOR BOATS

Interesting Four Days' Races Begin in Florida Today.

Palm Beach, Fla., March 16.—Although the absence of the Dixie II, America's fastest motor boat, detracts somewhat from the interest of the motor boat races which began on Lake Worth today, there is a large enough list of entries in the races to satisfy the motor boat enthusiasts assembled here from all parts of the United States. The Dixie has been shipped abroad to compete in the international races at Monaco. The races will last four days. The main feature of Friday, the closing day, will be a ninety mile endurance run at maximum speed for all boats entered in the other events.

BOSTON BEANS IN DANGER.

Back Bay of Hub Getting Sand Eating Habit.

Mrs. Marie Windsor, the high priestess of the sand eating cult, has been teaching the Back Bay residents of Boston how to improve their health and beauty with this latest delicacy. Thoroughly convinced that she has found a panacea for many of the fleshly ills, Mrs. Windsor declares that she has eaten sand for twelve years. She has found many converts in Boston to her methods, she declares.

She procures the sand from the channel of the Mississippi river, where the current rolls it into round grains. Then it is sifted, sunned and baked and shipped in bags by freight to Boston. The right kind of sand is brown hard silica. White sand, shell dust, sharp, flinty sand or clay will not do. Mrs. Windsor says she has cured 70,000 patients.

RULES OF HOUSE GET A TRIMMING

Amendment Resolution Carried by Vote of 211 to 172.

CHAMP CLARK IS DEFEATED

Nominal Democratic Leader's Set of Resolutions Turned Down in Favor of a More Conservative Series of Amendments to Rules Offered by Representative Fitzgerald—Speaker Cannon Accepts the Change Gracefully, Saying It's a Black Eye For Bryan.

Washington, March 16.—After one of the stormiest sessions in its history the house of representatives, regardless of party alignment, adopted, 211 to 172, a resolution by Mr. Fitzgerald (Dem.) of New York, whereby the rules were amended in several important particulars. The resolution was a substitute for one offered by Mr. Clark of Missouri.

Its adoption was accomplished only after the "insurgents" with the aid of the Democrats, with one or two exceptions, had won a decided preliminary victory by voting down a resolution by Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania, making the unamended rules of the Sixtieth congress applicable to those of the present congress.

Three Important Changes.

As analyzed by parliamentarians, the amendment makes three important changes. First, it establishes a "calendar for unanimous consents," the effect of which is to enable a member to have a proposition brought before the house without having to go to the speaker for recognition. This change, they say, will be a relief to the speaker. Second, when consideration of a bill is concluded and the previous question is ordered the rules heretofore have provided for a motion to commit with or without instructions. It has been the practice to recognize a member of the majority party to make this motion and thus prevent the minority from offering such instructions as it may desire. The new rule gives the minority the preference in making such a motion and thus enables them to get a record vote on propositions which would otherwise be settled in committee of the whole house, where no record vote is possible. Third, it protects the calendar Wednesday by requiring a two-thirds instead of a majority vote to set it aside. Fourth, it is also claimed that the amendment will have the effect of preventing favoritism by the action of the committee on rules in special cases.

A prominent feature of the Clark resolution was an amendment providing for a committee of fifteen members to revise, amend and codify the rules, and much of the opposition to it was because of this fact. As adopted the Fitzgerald amendment makes no change in the present method in the selection of the committee of rules which is made by the speaker, nor is there any change in the method of selecting committees.

Cannon's Views on It.

Speaker Cannon is inclined to regard the amendment as a slight improvement on the present rules, in that instead of throwing the responsibility for recognition on him, it sets aside certain days for the consideration of measures under unanimous consent; but, he says, under the new rules, members will have to wait for those days.

In a conversation soon after the action of the house he commented freely upon the fact that Mr. Bryan had interfered in the interest of the changes submitted by Mr. Clark and spoke of the adoption of the Fitzgerald substitute as a triumph over the Bryan forces, saying that the conservative Democrats who really want legislation had practically stood for the old rules with the amendments offered by Mr. Fitzgerald. "It was," he said, "a protest by the conservatives against Populism and all kindred things."

With plenty of votes to spare, Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois was re-elected speaker, receiving 204 votes as against 166 for Champ Clark of Missouri, 8 for Cooper of Wisconsin, 2 for Norris of Nebraska, and one each for Esch of Wisconsin and W. P. Hepburn of Iowa, an ex-member. All the Democratic members voted for Clark, so that the scattering vote represented the Republican defection from Cannon.

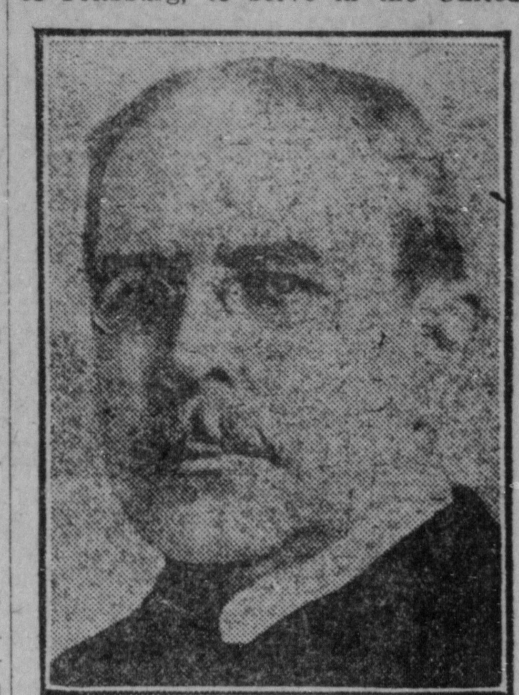

In making up the committees, it is stated on reliable authority, the speaker will consult with "every member of the house who desires to discuss assignments with him." This means that Minority Leader Clark will not enjoy the privilege accorded his predecessor, John Sharp Williams, of selecting the minority members. The attitude taken by the Democrats at a caucus held last evening is in sharp conflict with the new policy of Speaker Cannon. A resolution was adopted to prevent members of the minority accepting appointment on any committee without the previous approval of the present Democratic minority leader, Clark.

Weak cables and a slump in corn had a depressing effect on the Chicago wheat market.

OLIVER ELECTED TODAY

Harrisburg, Pa., March 16.—In separate session today the two houses of the Pennsylvania legislature met and elected George T. Oliver, Republican, of Pittsburg, to serve in the United States senate the unexpired term of Philander C. Knox, who left the senate to become secretary of state.

GEORGE T. OLIVER.

Tomorrow the two houses will meet and declare the result of today's balloting. The Democratic vote today was cast for State Senator Webster Grim.

EVIDENCE IS SOUGHT AGAINST SWINDLERS

Government Wants Help In Closing In On This Gang.

St. Louis, March 16.—Circular letters have been sent from here to men in various parts of the west by Post-office Inspector J. S. Swanson, asking the recipients to appear next week before the federal grand jury in Council Bluffs, Ia., and testify regarding alleged swindles perpetrated by J. C. Maybray and his associates, who were arrested recently in Little Rock, Ark. Swanson has received a letter from Frank H. Pilling of Tacoma, saying that he was swindled out of $18,000 in a "fake" prizefight last August. When he complained to the authorities he was arrested and sentenced to a year's imprisonment for aiding and abetting the fraud. He has appealed from that judgment and now is anxious to testify against Maybray. The latter was indicted twice last week at Council Bluffs.

FOURTH IN THE CHAIN

Remarkable Series of Suicides in an Illinois Town.

Venice, Ill., March 16.—Twenty-four hours after he had picked up the body of a suicide, C. B. Smith, a well-to-do resident of this city, ended his life with carbolic acid, the same kind of poison that Robert Nichols, the man he had tried to aid, drank. Smith was at Madison when Nichols died. Robert Nichols had killed himself after his brother John and Miss Beryl Somers had ended their lives. The last three suicides were caused by a disastrous love romance. Smith's daughter thinks mental suggestion caused her father to drink poison.

GILBERT MUST HANG

Youthful Murderer Denied Further Hearing by Virginia Court.

Norfolk, Va., March 16.—The last hope for Benjamin Gilbert, the eighteen-year-old boy convicted of the murder of his sweetheart, Miss Amanda Moss, who jilted him, passed when the supreme court of Virginia denied him a writ of error.

Governor Swanson, who has granted Gilbert several respites pending action by the supreme court, declines to interfere further, and without executive clemency he must die Friday next. Governor Swanson some time ago refused to commute Gilbert's sentence to life imprisonment.

Dorando the Victor.

New York, March 16.—Before 10,000 spectators, a large majority of whom were his countrymen, Dorando Pietri last night defeated Johnny Hayes by a half mile in the rubber match for Marathon supremacy. The race was at the regulation distance, 26 miles 385 yards, and was run over a ten-lap track in Madison Square Garden.

Substantiates Plot Theory.

Palermo, March 16.—Although nothing positive has yet been ascertained regarding the murderers of Lieutenant Petrosino, the authorities are of opinion that the crime was committed by emissaries of the Black Hand in New York.

The Argentine government has signed the exequatur of Richard M. Bartleman, the new American consul general at Buenos Ayres.

Gambling in Rushville! There are some amongst us, who for the want of something else to talk about, in order that the limelight might be attracted upon them as great reformers, are howling that the great green rooms and gilded palaces have been, and are running full blast here, with the full knowledge of the mayor and city marshal. But it is a cry of "wolf," and sooner or later, the men posing as if to do a great civic work will be shown up, and in the parlance of the gilded palace, will have to lay down their hands and admit they were bluffing. To begin with, they display (that is some of them) the political sense of a child, for they would create a mountain out of a mole hill; it is strictly a selfish and sinister move on the part of several of the chief instigators; with others it is vindictiveness and revenge. Be it understood that not one word of this article is written in defense of anyone, but it is rather directed as an attack against some who would set themselves up as leaders and saviors of society. They really should be pitied; they know not whereof they speak and they think the public is ready to gobble up anything they say. No chance; their motive is too apparent and can be seen by those that have eyes and ears to see. And before they finish in their work, will be the laughing stock of everybody, including their friends.

An honest effort towards reform, to correct an evil that exists, is to be commended and will win out despite the most obstinate opposition. But these vapor reform movements, inaugurated by modern Don Quixotes, who would fight imaginary foes, are like the false prophets of all ages, they will fall under the weight of their own wild speeches and ravings.

Now let us be honest with ourselves and with all men; let us hear both sides of the question. For the edification of its readers and the subject being timely, the Daily Republican has made an exhaustive investigation of the matter and as a consequence, has gathered some rather interesting data. To begin with, those "in the know" say there has been some little poker playing in Rushville for the past four years, but only about a thousandth part as much as was in progress in the years before that. It has been "under cover;" in some instances in back rooms, having no connection with saloons; in other places, within easy access of saloons and in private homes. But such a condition will, unfortunately, exist probably for all time and eternity. Poker players are men who have made a study of gambling, men who have money to gamble with, and they will get together in spite of every effort made to stamp them out or corral them. How often do they play? About one night a week, sometimes two nights and sometimes once in two weeks. All their games are private, so it is said. Admitting that there has been some gambling, it seems as if the officers have not done their full duty. No, there are other things to consider. Has there been any public gambling, such as was, formerly conducted in Rushville before the present officers went in, when one could find free-for-all crap games, klondyke, hieronymous and other games where the gullible were fleeced out of their money, with but little chance to win—hundreds of them. From the best information obtainable it is said that these games do not, neither have they existed since the present city marshal raided them and destroyed one table after another and all the paraphernalia in sight.

But here is the big question that the quixotical reformers cannot get around. Before City Marshal Price took the reins there was at least twenty-five fellows making a living out of gambling in Rushville; since he has been in office, not a single individual has made a living following that occupation. We have that information from one who knows and therefore we speak ex cathedra. One could write volumes on the question in a sort of a Dickens descriptive way, but what's the use? There is one Gibraltar of argument that cannot be answered.

The trouble lies in the fact that the agitators had little ground for an attack and picked up a few remnants to bullyrag about; backed by a few Democrats, who saw in it, an elegant opportunity to acquire a select lot of political buncombe, the matter was given an impetus. Among them are some of the very same fellows that raised a howl when it was said that smallpox was in Rushville. They claimed the doctors did not know what they were talking about and that it was only chickenpox. The same cause existed then as prevails now—they did not know what they were talking about.

It is with shame that we must admit that Rushville was once known from the Ohio river to Lake Michigan as a city where gambling was conducted in wide-open fashion and that those who wanted to flirt with the goddess of chance, could find here any game known under the sun. Since City Marshal Price first began raiding the gambling joints and hell holes, it is a notorious fact that Rushville is the cleanest and best city morally, in all Indiana. One can hear that in all the adjoining cities, and it is something to be proud of. Then why all this uproar? Just individuals looking for glory and empty honors. It is a downright shame and the quicker those kind of people are exposed and "sit down on" the better it is for them and the city as well.

One grand jury after another has failed to find indictments and but recently the city employed a detective at a cost of eighty dollars and he could not "deliver the goods." It was a needless expense and was brought about because of gossip and talk from men who hardly know the war is over.

Once in a while one hears of an individual being pointed out as one of the gamblers growing fat here at the expense of the public. Several cases were investigated. It was found that one conspicuous individual, who is thought to have been reaping a harvest, inasmuch as he did not have any visible means of a livelihood, has been living off the profits of former days. When Price came in, he had in money and property, something like $4000. Today it would hustle him to raise one thousand dollars of that amount. Another man, it is found, has lost in business (and from the lack of gambling) over $25,000. One fellow, who is classed as A1 in the profession, and who probably averaged from $50 to $75 a week, has not averaged one dollar a week since Price put on the badge. Other fellows, who had the reputation for being artists in their line are now found tending bar, working in restaurants and in the factories of Rushville. Not a few of them left Rushville and some of them have gone the route that all men go, who try to make a living at gambling—they are penniless.

Shouldn't a man who is solely responsible for this reformation receive the plaudits of the better class of people and not one iota of condemnation and criticism? That question is easily answered. Mr. Price has done the work of three men, and accomplished more than any other force of men that ever did police duty in Rushville. Let us be honest and render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and say "well done good and faithful servant, we are for you."

For Woman's Eye.

Many women are wearing flesh colored slips under their lingerie blouses during the cold weather.

The straight lines are only used in the fashionable costumes, curves remain tabooed.

The suede glove is encroaching considerably on the popularity of the glace kid.

Hand painted lace blouses are popular for wear with the tailored suits.

The bordered effects are found in most of the kinds of wash materials.

YOUNG FORGERS RELEASED TODAY

Xenia High School Boys Were Let Down Easy by the Local Officials.

TAUGHT A VALUED LESSON

Boy Left Home After he Had a Fight Defending His Sweetheart's Brother.

Harry Springer and Henry Lucas, the two Xenia, Ohio, high school boys arrested here Sunday by City Marshal Price after they had passed a worthless check on John Conroy, were released from jail today and taken back to their homes by their parents, who came after them. The boys are aged 14 and 15 years respectively, instead of the ages they gave.

The two lads struck out on last Thursday, when they were expelled from school for fighting. It seems as if Springer was "all kicked in" on a girl and seeing a crowd of boys walloping her younger brother he took a hand and put them all hors de combat. For this he was expelled. Wednesday night he went to the home of his sweetheart and told her he was going away as he feared his mother would send him to a reformatory as she threatened to do, if ever he was dismissed from school. The girl entreated with him to remain, saying she would intercede with his mother for him. He thought it would not be of any use and after the two went out on the front stoop and had a "good cry" together he left. The Lucas boy agreed to accompany him.

Springer had about $25 in an Xenia bank, but he did not take a cent of it with him. Lucas had a few dollars and with that they managed to reach here. When they ran out of funds Lucas proposed the fake check manner of raising a little money. From the start Sheriff King said Springer was inclined to tell the truth about the whole deal, but Lucas insisted on "lying like a trooper." His father, who came after him, is in the lumber business in Xenia and was greatly grieved over the affair. The mother of the Springer boy arrived here late last night and hurried to the jail to talk to her boy. She was a pleasant woman and took a philosophical view of the matter. She seemed to think it would teach the boys a valued lesson and cause them to appreciate more what a home means.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

"The papers said the room showed a struggle."
When the other still kept quiet Gale insisted:

"Didn't you?"
At this Stark flamed up defiantly.
"Well, I guess I had cause enough. No woman except her was ever untrue to me—wife or sweetheart."
"You didn't really think?"
"Think h—l! I thought so then, and I think so now. She denied it, but—"
"And you knew her so well too. I guess you've had some bad nights yourself, Bennett, with that always on your mind?"
"I swore I'd have—"
"—and so you put her blood on my head and made me an outlaw." After an instant, "Why did you tell me this, anyhow?"

"It's our last talk, and I wanted you to know how well my hate worked."
"Well, I guess that's all," said Gale. So far they had watched each other with unwavering, unblinking eyes.

His blade flickered in the light, straining at the leash and taut in every nerve. Now, however, the trader's fingers tightened on the knife handle, and his knuckles whitened with the grip, at which Stark's right hand swept to his waist, and simultaneously Gale lunged across the table. His blade flickered in the light, and a gun spoke—once, twice, again and again. A cry arose outside the cabin; then some heavy thing crashed in through the door, bringing light with it, for with his first leap Gale had carried the lamp and the table with him, and the two had clutched in the dark.

Burrell had waited an instant too long, for the men's voices had held so steady, their words had been so vital, that the finish found him unprepared; but, thrusting the lantern into Poleon's hand, he had backed off a pace and hurled himself at the door. He fell to his knees inside and an instant later found himself wrestling for his life between two raging beasts. The lieutenant knew Doret must have entered too, though he could not see him, for

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always treat, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label. If poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must be law to be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding years, Doret. He killed my wife!"

"Dat's d—d lie!" said the Frenchman.

"No, it isn't. He's under indictment for it back in California. He shot her down in cold blood, then ran off with my kid. That's her he calls Neela. She's mine. Ain't I right, Lieutenant?"

At this final desperate effort to fix the crime upon his rival Burrell turned on him with loathing.

"It's no use, Stark. We heard you say she killed herself. We were standing outside the door, both of us, and got it from your own lips."

Until this moment the man had stood on his own feet, but now he began to sag, seeing which Poleon supported him to the bed, where he sank weakly, collapsing in every joint and muscle.

"It's a job," he snarled. "You put this up, you three, and came here to gang me." An unnatural shudder convulsed him as his wounds bit at him, and then he flared up viciously. "But I'll beat you all. I've got the girl. I've got her."

"Neela!" cried Burrell, suddenly remembering, for this affray had driven all else from his mind.

Stark crouched on the edge of his bunk, a ghastly grin grinning thing. One weapon still remained to him, and he used it.

"Yes, I've got my daughter."
"Where is she?" demanded the trader hoarsely. "Where's my girl?"

The gambler chuckled. An agony seized him till he hiccupped and strangled. Then, as the spell passed, he laughed again.

"She's got you in her head, like the mother had, but I'll drive it out. I'll treat her like I did her."

Gale uttered a terrible cry and moved upon him, but Burrell shouldered the trader aside, himself possessed by a cold fury that intensified his strength tenfold.

"Stop it, Gale. Let me attend to this. I'll make him tell."
"Oh, will you?" mocked the girl's father.

"Where is she?"
"None of your d—d business!" Again he was seized with a paroxysm that left him shivering and his lips colorless. The blankets were soaked and soggy with blood, and his feet rested in a red pool.

"Ben Stark," said the tortured lover, "you're a sick man, and you'll be gone in half an hour at this rate. Won't you do one decent thing before you die?"

"Bah! I'm all right."
"I'll get you a doctor if you'll tell us where she is. If you don't I'll let you die. For God's sake, man, speak up!"

The wounded man strove to rise, but could not, then considered for a moment before he said:

"I sent her away."
"Where?"

"Up river on that freighter that left last night. She'll go out by Skagway, and I'll join her later, where I can have her to myself. She's forty miles up river now and getting farther every minute. Oh, you can't catch her!"

The three men stared at one another blankly.

"Why did she go?" said Gale dully.

"Because I told her who she was and who you are; because she thinks you killed her mother; because she was glad to get away." Now that he was grown too weak to inflict violent pain the man lied malevolently, gloating over what he saw in the trader's face.

"Never mind, old man; I'll bring her back," said Burrell and laid a comforting hand on Gale's shoulder, for the fact that she was safe, the fact of knowing something, relieved him immensely, but Stark's next words plunged him into even blacker horror than the trader felt.

"You won't want her if you catch her. Run! Run! Run! Run!"

"Yes, I sent him with her."
The lover cried out in anguish and hid his face in his hands.

"He's wanted her for a long time, so I told him to go ahead."

None of them noticed Poleon Doret, who upon this unnatural confession alone seemed to retain sufficient control to doubt and to reason. He was thinking hard, straightening out certain facts and trying to square this horrible statement with things he had seen and heard tonight. All of a sudden he uttered a great cry and bolted out into the darkness unheeded by Gale and Burrell, who stood dazed and distraught with a fear greater than that which was growing in Stark at sight of his wounds.

The gambler looked down at his injuries, opened and closed the fingers of his hand as if to see whether he still maintained control of them, then cried out at the two helpless men:

"Well, are you going to let me bleed to death?"

good health, with its blessings, must understand, quite clearly, that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best, each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to living aright. Then the use of medicines may be dispensed with to advantage, but under ordinary conditions in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time and the California Fig Syrup Co. holds that it is alike important to present the subject truthfully and to supply the one perfect laxative to those desiring it.

Consequently, the Company's Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna gives general satisfaction. To get its beneficial effects buy the genuine, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and for sale by all leading druggists.

It brought the soldier out of his trance.

"Why—no, no! We'll get a doctor." But Gale touched him on the shoulder and said:

"He's too weak to get out. Lock him in and let him die in the dark."

Stark cursed affrightedly, for it is a terrible thing to bleed to death in the dark, and in spite of himself the lieutenant wavered.

"I can't do that. I promised."

"He told that lie to my girl. He gave her to that bound," said the trader, but Burrell shoved him through the door.

"No; I can't do that!" And then to the wounded man he said, "I'll get a doctor, but God have mercy on your soul!" He could not trust himself to talk further with this creature nor be near him any longer, for, though he had a slight knowledge of surgery, he would sooner have touched a loathsome serpent than the flesh of this monstrous man.

He pushed Gale ahead of him, and the old man went like a driven beast, for his violence had wasted itself, and he was like a person under the spell of a strong drug.

ECZEMA CURABLE? PROVEN!

Attorney at Moline, Ill., Convinced by Oil of Wintergreen Compound.

There is nothing that will convince a lawyer except evidence.

Now, here is some rather startling evidence of a simple home cure for eczema which convinced one lawyer F. C. Entriaken, attorney at Moline, Ill. He tells how oil of wintergreen compound mixed with Uymol and glycerine, as in D. D. D. Prescription, cured him in forty days after thirty-two years of suffering.

"For thirty-two years," writes Attorney Entriaken, "I was troubled with eczema, scabs all over my face, body and ead. I could run a hair brush over my body and the floor would be covered with scales enough to fill a basket. I tried everything—salves, internal medicine, X-Ray—all without result."

"Just a month ago I was induced to try D. D. D. Prescription. The itch was relieved instantly; so I continued. It is just a month now and I am completely cured. I have not a particle of itch and the scales have dropped off."

"I can only say again CURE DISCOVERED. I am now starting all eczema sufferers on the right track." Cure after cure has been brought to our attention and always that instant relief from the awful itch. Lytle's Drug Store.

SCENELESS SHAKESPEARE.

American Actress and Husband to Try Theatrical Experiment in London.

Miss Fay Davis, the charming American actress, and her husband, Gerald Lawrence, intend to make a daring experiment some time in April. They will present at the Court theater, in London, a series of six plays of Shakespeare, beginning with "As You Like It," and there will be no scenery at all.

Instead of the gorgeous mounting to which Mr. Tree has accustomed his patrons in his Shakespearean productions the "scenery" at the Court theater will consist of beautiful old tapestries which will be hung at the back of the stage and at the wings.

The "Aeroplane Face."

The "aeroplane face" has recently been discovered and described by a well known phrenologist, Professor de Prallo of Paris. He points out the strange new features of this countenance, contrasting them with the peculiarities of the "bicycle face" and the "automobile face," but says that the aeroplane physiognomy differs from the others in all particulars. He remarks, "It is noticeable in the Wright brothers, Leon Delagrang, Santos-Dumont and all the other 'human birds,' except Farman; that their eyes are not exactly in front, but more at an angle than normal, caused by 'the anxious sidelong glance' of the aviator, whose troubles are not ahead of him but at the side."

ELECTRICITY FROM THE SUN.

How a Massachusetts Man Uses Its Rays to Generate Currents.

That he has successfully solved the problem of storing up the sun's rays and converting them into electrical energy is the claim made by a Boston inventor.

He is George S. Cove, and he demonstrates the success of his invention by lighting his workshop in Somerville, a Boston suburb, with electricity generated from a simple apparatus on the roof.

Cove's invention will be known as the "solar electric generator," and he says it can be built at a cost of $100 each. It consists of a framework to be placed in an opening where it will receive the direct rays of the sun. Short plugs of a metal composition are set into this frame. There are 976 plugs. Filled in around these plugs is a body of heat absorbing material. The difference of the temperature of the two ends of the metal plugs, one being in the sun, the other in the open, with a circulation of air around it, generates the current of electricity.

If the sun goes under a cloud an automatic cut-out breaks the circuit between the generator and the batteries. The device is thus entirely automatic. When the sun sets, it automatically shuts off the storage batteries and begins again in the morning. This machine generates through a day of sunshine enough electricity to light five lights of twenty candle power each, to last from three to four days of continuous lighting.

MOVE TO SAVE BABIES.

New York Societies Planning to Check Infant Mortality.

In an effort to save the lives of the babies of New York who are sacrificed by the ignorance of their parents concerning their proper care the County Medical Society, the board of trustees of the Bellevue and allied hospitals and the recently organized Infant Science academy, which was founded by Mrs. Gibson Arnold, have begun a concerted movement among the charitable and medical societies of the city.

The bodies named are planning the holding of a great mass meeting after Easter in order to awaken the public of New York to a sense of the importance of saving the lives of the babies. It is pointed out that, while 26,230 persons died last year in New York of tuberculosis, against which so vigorous a warfare is being waged, the infant mortality of New York in the same period was 26,503. The babies who thus met untimely deaths were, according to a recent writer, "surrounded by mud and murdered by ignorance," and many of the deaths were preventable.

A Road Made of Ants.

Of the ants in Venezuela Professor Hilmar Bingham says: "At one place on the sandy trail the ants had formed a living causeway over the fine sand of the path in order to facilitate the great speed at which the majority wished to travel. The causeway was over two inches wide and from one to three ants deep. So firmly did the 'bridges' hold together, I lifted the causeway four inches from the ground by thrusting a stick underneath without breaking their formation."

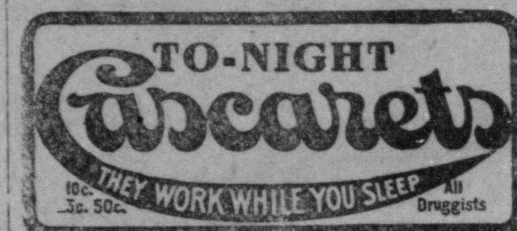

Bryan's Jet Black Stove Polish.

Is the best stove polish on the market. This is not our own verdict, alone, but that of a constantly increasing number of users who really constitute the "court of last appeal" in the matter of the utility of any article. Bryan's Jet Black is easy to apply, shines with least polishing, gives a lasting jet black luster which makes the stove a "thing of beauty." This polish is not only clean, smokeless, dustless and odorless, but it lengthens the life of any stove. Manufactured in both liquid and paste form. For sale wherever stove polishes are sold. 304t12

CRIME AND PUBLICITY

The Newspaper In Its Relation to the Under World.

THE FORCE OF SUGGESTION

Superintendent Whittaker of the Indiana Reformatory Points Out How Embryo Criminals Are Influenced by the Publication of Vivid Details of Crime—A Paper Read Before Recent Meeting of Indiana Republican Editorial Association.

In a thoughtful paper on the subject of "Crime and Publicity," read before the Indiana Republican Editorial association at Indianapolis, Superintendent William H. Whittaker of the Indiana State Reformatory said:

Personally I believe much good to society can come from the newspapers becoming better acquainted with the question of crime and criminals. Not only from the view of publicity or matter that goes into your newspaper columns for the reading public, but you should understand more thoroughly the characteristics and peculiarities of the criminal.

Alike the World Over.

The human family is divided and subdivided into classes whose likes and dislikes, whose natures and peculiarities are affected alike. The same force of suggestion, as it were, will affect those of us who belong to a particular class in practically the same way. So when we are dealing with the subject of crime and publicity we have in mind that class of citizens who are weak, who are easily tempted, who have been trained in the environment in which they have lived to think that the world owes them a living and that they must have what is coming to them the easiest way possible. This, then, brings us to the thought: "How does the criminal class of our country receive its education?"

Those who have given the subject careful consideration find the criminal tendencies of the individual appear at the age of eight to ten, and that our graduates in crime or the most dangerous criminals, are found at the age of twenty to twenty-five years. This class of citizens was not schooled in our public schools. Statistics show that but 2 per cent of them ever attended high school; that 20 per cent are illiterate, and that 60 per cent never attended school farther than the third or fourth grade.

If it had been possible for these young fellows, who we find in our reformatories and prisons, to have had training in Sunday-school, in church and in our public schools until they were eighteen or twenty years of age, 50 per cent of them could have been saved from the disgrace that has been brought to them by their bad environment and bad schooling.

Contributory Causes of Crime.

In talking with this class of boys and getting from them their personal experience, it is very easy to judge those things that contributed to their downfall. Truancy from school and church, running the streets at night with rowdy companions, blood-and-thunder literature, visiting the cheap theaters and smoking cigarettes—these are some of the causes which contribute to their delinquency.

It is hard to say which one of these negative forces contributes the most to ruin the boy. No doubt each does its full share. A boy who expects to reach his highest possibilities can never hope to do so if he is addicted to these pernicious habits.

When we go into the cities and visit the lazing places of this class of our citizens, and take an inventory of their belongings, we will find a package of cigarette papers, a package of smoking tobacco, a blank book with the addresses of their pals who will help them when called upon to carry out a contemplated "job," a ten-cent novel or a copy of a yellow journal that gives in detail the criminal news of the day; and the paper that furnishes the information in detail and has the larger headlines in reference to criminal news, is the one usually read by these people and to be found in their possession.

Susceptible to Bateful Influences.

Human beings are great imitators, and no class of the human family is more susceptible to bateful influence or more easily persuaded than the fellow who belongs to the criminal class. Under proper influence and environment they can be persuaded for the better life just as easily as they can be led into crime. Hence the modern methods used in our reformatories and prisons in handling criminals is so much more successful than the old plan of inhuman methods which appealed only to the animal nature of these individuals.

The criminal can be appealed to by high-class literature and good books from the library more than in any other way. I have had them tell me that they got their first lesson in good citizenship in the institution from the books given them from the library; and when asked why they had not read this class of literature before coming to the institution, they said that their environment was such that they never heard of reading matter except the dime novels, the yellow journals; and that, when they get hold of a high-class newspaper, their only thought was to find the criminal news and to see what was done in the police courts with their pals who they knew had been arrested for some felony.

All this leads me to believe that the newspaper of today gives too much attention to publishing the criminal news and elaborates too much on the action of our criminal and police courts.

We must admit that more criminals are acquitted than are convicted, and the fact that such information is daily given to our criminal population constantly gives the fellow who is a criminal hopes that he will be the next lucky one, and he proceeds upon the theory by robbing your house or holding up the first man or woman he sees who he believes has what he wants because of his education from the newspapers, because the chances are in his favor of being released through some technicality of the court.

To Restrict Newspapers.

I believe if the newspapers of the country would only give the criminal and police court findings where convictions are had, saying nothing when the criminal was found not guilty, it would be the means of saving many a boy from taking a step that will lead him to the prison gate. I further believe that when crime is committed newspapers should give but little if any notice to the public. Under the system today you give glaring headlines and much space to some worthless fellow who has taken a horse or robbed a store in your community.

It would be much better, in my judgment, to use this same space for a good wholesome story that would be elevating to the boy or girl who would read it, and leave in the minds of those who read it an impression for good. The glaring headlines and wild west methods used today in many of our newspapers in giving accounts of crime has but one effect, and that is to induce some weak-minded, criminally inclined individual to proceed to do the same act.

For twelve years I have been connected with the penal institutions of this state. In that time a number of inmates have taken their lives by the suicide route, and I cannot recall one instance where the attempt was successful, but that another and sometimes as many as three attempts would follow in rapid succession which only shows the condition of mind of these weak and unfortunate human beings, and that many of their act wholly upon suggestion.

The Tendency to Imitate.

In studying the mental character of criminals in prison it becomes noticeable that suggestion plays a large part. It is by suggestion that a man is led to make the effort to reform himself, abandon crime, and settle down to a decent living. It is largely the tendency to imitate that makes the man or woman of a community good or bad.

Life is full of instances where some good man with courage in his heart has changed the sentiments or habits of a bad neighborhood, and by exhibiting a strong and admirable character, has gradually won admiration and respect, thereby through imitation help and benefit his entire community.

If an individual has the personality to do this, would not a newspaper going into the homes from day to day and from year to year, wield a far greater influence in directing its readers for good or evil than can any individual through his personal influence and work?

Take any institution and by assuming in your talks to the men that they as a body are really in favor of decency and order and really find more comfort and content in decency and order than in disorder and confusion, you can create and maintain in them a preponderance of sentiment in favor of decency and order that will have marked effect for good.

If officers in our institutions take a hopeful view of things and are of the opinion that the men as a body are really trying to behave themselves and keep straight, and that the exceptions of misconduct and meanness on the part of the few "only go to prove the rule," as the old saying is, there will result a better feeling among the men themselves and a higher average of good conduct will result.

How "Waves of Crime" Start.

On the other hand, if the notion that a "wave of crime" is about to sweep over the prison, and everybody, officers and prisoners alike, are stretching their necks to see the wave, it will probably come and a lot of trouble will result. One of the things that disturb a prison greatly is the publication of a story of some occurrence in the prison in which some writer uses his imagination freely and describes "the hundred desperate men" "caged by the prison bars," and gives the outsider to understand that the whole prison population is thirsty for blood and ready for riot. The effect on the prison population is to make the men believe that the story is inspired by some official idea, and that they are so regarded by the penitentiary authorities. This increases the tendency of a few really bad and desperate men to "show off" and do the things expected of them.

On the other hand, if some bad man, who belongs to a minority of really desperate men, actually does some desperate deed, the newspaper accounts are apt to make it appear that he was "rendered desperate by the treatment" or the "horrors of the place," etc., and the prison population gets the notion that it is being cruelly and unjustly treated.

Censorship of newspapers and the cutting out of articles such as the above is generally futile, for the article in its actual form or greatly increased in the harrowing nature of its details by oral transmission, inevitably gets into the prison in some shape, and the fact that it has been carefully hunted up and cut out of the newspaper by the prison officials only tends to confirm it. If such stories could be limited to bare statements of the facts without exaggeration or wild or fanciful description of unnecessary details, there would be little harm done.

Two Communities Compared.

Now, as it is in prison, so it is with the criminal element in the outside world. Take any community in which the papers enter into details and garnish them with fanciful assignment of causes which are half apologetic or mitigating in tone (and which are often untrue, being the culprit's excuse for his act), and I will guarantee that more crime will be found in that community than in one in which mere statement of fact, attended with the condemnation or the regret with which the community does or ought to view such deeds, is the rule of press treatment.

Newspapers men are loyal citizens; are enthusiastic Americans; are naturally against tyranny, oppression and wrong; none are more generous than they. They, I believe, "will put their shoulders" to this thing and push it to success if they come to understand it.

With relation to newspapers and prisons it is a well-known fact that certain newspapers, one printed in Ohio, one in Kansas, one or two in New York, and others elsewhere, are eagerly subscribed for by the professional and habitual criminal in prison who has any extensive criminal acquaintance or range when outside, for the reason that these certain newspapers are to him like stock reports to a broker; they give him information as to what his partners and business associates are doing outside, and sometimes help him to plan crimes while he is still within prison walls.

The Danger of Details.

But the most alarming danger to the community at large lies in the detailed description of criminal and police methods which American newspapers, especially, make a point of publishing. The energy, industry and keenness of our newspaper friends must awaken our admiration, and from the point of newsgathering, American papers have no equal.

It must be said also, in justice to the craft, that very often criminals are hunted down and crimes are exploited and punished more because of the indomitable courage and unflinching perseverance of some newspaper man, who, like the thoroughbred bloodhound, never leaves the trail and keeps up such a din that public sentiment compels police authorities to exert themselves. But what we are now considering is the effect upon the criminal to be, that publicity of details produces.

I think entirely too much is written and too many details of the crime are published before the individual who is accused has been given a trial by jury. Human nature is of such a make-up that on reading a story prepared by some active newspaper man, a man's mind is unnecessarily influenced in forming his opinion as to the innocence or guilt of an individual before he is tried by jury. And with the great circulation of the newspapers of today, the man who is intelligent enough to sit upon a jury and pass upon the case of a person who commits a crime, although he may think his mind has not been influenced by the story he has read of the crime, yet the first impressions left upon this man's mind from the pen of the energetic correspondent, is bound to leave an impression that he cannot shake off, even though from a preponderance of evidence the facts are contrary to the story written by the newspaper man.

Perfect Justice Not Possible.

Justice Brewer of the United States supreme court, after forty years of judicial experience, says that perfect justice is not possible. He says it is a human impossibility to know all the factors of heredity and influence which should be taken into account in deciding the guilt of a prisoner.

And if, as Justice Brewer says, perfect justice is not possible, then how far are we drifting from any semblance of justice when the clamor of a mob or a sensational press demands punishment for one accused of crime, even before the facts are known or before the defendant has had time to enter a plea of any sort. The energetic newspaper of today has the power to hang an innocent man or free a guilty one. I believe that too much emphasis cannot be laid upon this fact.

Safeguards Against Crime.

Again, on the other hand: It has been said that newspapers are safeguards against crime; that more crimes would be committed if it were not for the fear of publicity. I contend that this is not true, except in the cases of persons holding prominent social positions, which this class of prisoners does not represent to exceed 1 to 2 per cent of the total number of criminals in our country.

The true criminal, or the fellow who expects to make a living by following the occupation of a criminal, cares very little whether the history of his crime is published or not. In fact, he prefers to see his name at the head of a column of the yellow journal exactly as the great financier is glad to see his photograph or a picture of his fine country residence, or a detailed account of some great corporation that he controls, in print. Therefore, I believe that the claim, which is often made by newspaper men, that they prevent crime by giving due notice to the public when crime is committed, is erroneous.

SITUATION IS INEXPLICABLE

State Department Worried Over Nicaragua.

MORE WARSHIPS DISPATCHED

Notwithstanding the Earnest Protests of Nicaragua's Minister to Washington, Our Government Is Not Going to Be Caught Napping in Its Endeavor to Keep the Peace in Central America—Nicaraguan Troops Massing in Force Near Honduran Frontier.

Washington, March 16.—Nicaragua, through her minister here, Senor Espinoza, has protested to Secretary Knox that the military and naval activity now in progress in that country is destined entirely for defensive purposes; that she does not contemplate making any attacks on her sister republics, and that conditions are quiet within her borders.

The minister went to the state department armed with a bundle of dispatches from his government and spent a half hour with the secretary, during which he discussed also the Emery claim, which has been the dispute between the two republics for years. Both the secretary and the minister, after the conference, expressed the hope for a satisfactory adjustment of the claim and a peaceful solution of the whole situation.

Will Send More Warships.

Notwithstanding the minister's assertion of Nicaragua's peaceful intentions toward her neighbors, the administration has decided to augment the naval force in Central American waters to a total of six vessels. In addition to the Yorktown, now en route for Anapala, Honduras, the armored cruisers Maryland and Washington are to remain on the west coast, the former going to Acapulco, Salvador, and the latter to Corinto.

The most significant late news that has reached the state department was that about 6,000 Nicaraguan troops have gathered near the Honduran frontier, the chief scene of activity being in the neighborhood of Corinto, where are also concentrated four gunboats and other auxiliary craft. A feature distasteful to the state department is the manner in which John H. Gregory, the secretary of legation at Managua, who has been ordered to Washington, is being treated. From the dispatches it is gathered that the Nicaraguans are doing nothing to make his position agreeable, but that on the contrary there are evidences of hostility to him, and it is understood here also that some of his dispatches have not reached him as promptly as they should.

The whole situation is inexplicable and irritating to the state department, which is not disposed to act hastily and is seeking the views of the various capitals in Central America through its representatives in those places, with whom it has acquainted fully every step that has been taken.

TO SAVE THE BABIES

This Is the Object of Conference Held in New York Today.

New York, March 16.—Philanthropists, sociologists and others interested in the saving of babies' lives met here today in a conference to plan the establishment of an academy for the instruction of mothers in the proper care of children. The conference was held under the auspices of the recently organized Infant Science academy, the founder and leading spirit of which is Mrs. Gibson Arnold of this city.

The leaders of the conference aim at securing the co-operation of the mother, the nurse, the family physician and the infant specialist in their endeavors to check the ravages of infant mortality. At the conference statistics were produced to show that in New York last year the deaths of babies less than one year old exceeded in number the deaths from tuberculosis. Mrs. Arnold and her coworkers declared that, while vigorous measures are being taken to save the lives of those attacked or threatened with consumption, very little in comparison is being done to help the infants.

NOTABLE WEDDING

Two Prominent New York Families United by Marriage Today.

New York, March 16.—Two of New York's most prominent society families were united today by the marriage of Miss Susan Alexander McCook and Peter Augustus Jay. The bride, who is a daughter of Colonel John J. McCook, is related by marriage to the Morgans and other well known families. The bridegroom is a son of Augustus Jay and a member of one of New York's oldest and most historic families. On his mother's side he is a descendant of John Jacob Astor.

Mr. Jay has been in the diplomatic service several years and holds the important post of first secretary of the American embassy in Tokyo. The engagement of the young couple was announced only a week ago, and the marriage was hastened to permit the early return of Mr. Jay to the Japanese capital with his bride.

IN THE GRIP OF THE CUBAN ITCH

Contagion Takes Rushville by Storm and Many Are "Toeing the Scratch."

MAKING MONKEYS OF US

Whole Families Sit Around and Dig —Parasite Worked Havoc in the High School.

If you haven't had the Cuban itch here lately you are not fashionable at all. Shame on you! Nearly everybody has it, or they are getting it. Many thought at first it was "seam rabbits," but no such thing. It is the genuine itch and stays with you for from one week to one year. Pleasant outlook, isn't it. Maybe you are one of the year itchers. It is a "scratch" if you get any sleep for the pesky microbe does not begin to do his full duty until the shades of night close in. Don't laugh, but stop and shed a tear if you see a man "making a monkey of himself" and scratching for dear life. The blame disease has been around here, in light form, for over two years, the doctors say. It went through the high school. It is contagious. Whole families become afflicted.

It is not a blood disease, but local; a parasite that burrows under the skin and starts a lot of trouble. There are a hundred and one things good for it, but very few that are bad for it. About the most successful home remedy is to change bed clothing and underclothing every day; rub yourself down with a mixture of lard and sulphur every night and take a bath in the morning. Spread the salve on good and plenty until you have to tie yourself in bed to keep from slipping out. The only other way to get rid of the parasite is to burn the body to a crisp.

Mrs. Martin Wright of Glenwood is recovering slowly from a peculiar accident, which befell her a few weeks ago. On an icy morning she went to her woodshed, and was in the act of opening the door, when she slipped and fell. She was holding the door knob, and in her fall, the ligaments of her right arm were badly torn and displaced. For many days she had no use of the hand or arm, but she is now nearing complete recovery.

BY THE WAYSIDE

The average country editor is a chump. He will submit to the abuse of some old miserly skindint or Shyllock in a community for years, and when death, in all its merciful kindness removes the worthless old carcass to a place that has possibly been eager and yawning for years to even up his devilish score. Mr. Editor in a laudatory language and a half column of space will pour out his sympathy, touchingly yet pathetically. Not so with the Call. The next old reprobate that shuffles off may die with this troubled fact on his mind that we are going to everlastingly lambast him as soon as we have proof that his grouchy life has been snuffed and he is on his way home. Some of you old reprobates, be you one or many, had better take due notice and come in and "make good" with us before the last call for there is not a drop of sentimental hypocrisy or surveiling pretense in our hearts.—Purcell, (Okla.) Call.

AMUSEMENTS

The Wabash Glee club and Mando-lin club is one of the best musical organizations on the road and always puts on a program that is well balanced and interesting from start to finish. A new "Alma Mater" song has been written by Carroll Ragan, of Chicago, the writer of "Old Wabash," which is considered one of the best of all college songs. The new song is a beautiful composition and promises to be very popular. Three songs written by Wabash men are used by the club this season. The concert will begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

"In the Shenandoah Valley" is the title of the film to be shown at the Vaudet tonight. The subject is a pictorial film and shows the beautiful scenery that is famous all over the world. The talking picture, "Crazed by Jealousy" will be shown. Miss Clara Gregg will sing "She's Just the Girl For Me."

The Grand theater has an excellent bill to offer tonight in the three subjects, "Amongst South American Indians, Argentine Republic," "Rivalry," and "Mother-in-Law's Day in the Country." The program is varied, presenting comic as well as picture subjects. Miss Iva Brown will sing, "I Lost My Heart When I Saw Your Eyes."
